

Guido Titze was born in Cottbus, Germany, where he received his first musical training. He studied at the Dresden College of Music with Andreas Lorenz (oboe) and Siegfried Kurz (composition). In 1982 he was appointed Principal Oboe of the Staatskapelle Weimar and took up the same position in the Dresden

Philharmonic Orchestra in 1985. He has been playing the baroque oboe since 1989 and is a founding member of the Dresden Baroque Orchestra.

Guido Titze is in great demand as a soloist on both modern and baroque oboe. He has made numerous recordings with the Dresden Baroque Orchestra, the Academy of Ancient Music Berlin, the Weimar Baroque Ensemble, Virtuosi Saxoniae and the Dresden Wind Quintett, among others.

Guido Titze has taught at the Dresden College of Music since 1995. At the Summer University of Early Music he is teaching baroque oboe master classes for the fifth time.
